Byanca

Byanca is a Maltese blend who arrived to us as a stray. When we took in this 13-year-old gal and fully examined her, we found her age was starting to catch up her. She needed some dental work, had multiple mammary masses, and was diagnosed with heart disease. Byanca's care included a mastectomy, extensive senior dental extractions, and medication to help manage her heart disease.

Total Cost $6,283

Draven

Draven is an 11-year-old domestic short hair who came to us as a stray. During his intake exam, we noticed he was in need of senior dental work. At his vet senior exam, he was also diagnosed with hyperthyroidism. Unfortunately, feline hyperthyroidism can complicate any major veterinary surgery, especially an extensive full-mouth dental extraction. Following his dental extractions, Draven spent two nights in emergency care. Luckily, Draven made a full recovery.

Total Cost $6,830

Tia

Tia is an 11-year-old Shih Tzu who came to us after her owner passed away. Upon her intake exam, we found she was in need of some dental care and extractions. A vet appointment also let us know she had bladder stones that needed to be removed. Shih Tzus are structurally predisposed to both severe periodontal disease and bladder stones, so these two procedures were essential to restore Tia's comfort.

Total Cost $2,485

Lynnon

Lynnon was born with us in foster on March 28. When he reached 7-weeks-old he fell ill and tested positive for PanLeukopenia. Panleukopenia is a highly contagious and life-threatening viral disease that severely attacks a kitten's immune system and gastrointestinal tract. To stabilize Lynnon, he required emergency care, round-the-clock isolation, and aggressive supportive therapies.

Total Cost $4,104

Snowball

Snowball is an 11-year-old, Maltese/Terrier blend. She was returned to us when her owner's health declined. Her senior vet exam told us she had severe glaucoma in her right eye, chronic arthritis and allergies. She had enucleation (eye removal surgery) for her glaucoma, and receives daily medication for her allergies and arthritic pain management.

Total Cost $4,592

Joel

Joel is a 2-year-old domestic short hair who came to us a stray. Upon his exam, we noticed he seemed a bit lethargic and stuffed up. At his vet exam, it was discovered that he had a severe ear infection that was due to a polyp in his ear. The polyp was causing Joel's intranasal issues. Once medications were finished and his ear infection cleared up, the vet was able to do a CT scan and remove the polyp.

Total Cost $5,723
